GUIDING PRINCIPLES

- The Wilberforce Alliance brings together individuals, faith communities, and the academic world in a united front to stand for religious freedom and against persecution.
- We are guided by our Christian faith, building upon a vibrant history of successful activists, including champions such as 19th-century British parliamentarian William Wilberforce.
- We are part of a bipartisan movement to advance religious freedom as a fundamental right from both religious and secular organizations.
- We are dedicated to protecting religious freedom throughout the world as a basic human right and a matter of conscience.
- We educate on the value of religious freedom, both domestically and around the world.
- We respond to international abuses.
- We promote reforms and protections internationally by leveraging the influence and resources offered in the United States and through our international networks.
